Figure 20.5 Example of a board-level architecture that shows a LAN interface. The interface passes packets between a network and a computer system.